Does your child seem to struggle with class & homework? Do they seem to suffer emotionally from not being able to complete assignments? We would like to share with you, resources & connections on how to get help with children struggling academically &/or emotionally from failing grades due to learning disabilities.

There are teachers & counselors who are here to help determine if they have a learning disability or if they simply learn in a different manner or pace than other students. Come network & chat with teachers, counselors and other parents who may share similar experiences. Snacks & beverages served. Questions ? Please contact Lauren LeChase @ Saljoe3299@aol.com
